Find Contact Info for Local Leader(s)

Find a Decision-Maker to Contact about Smoke-Free Multifamily Housing!

To achieve change in your city, you will need to start a conversation with decision-makers.

That starts by using these two methods to find the contact information for your city's local leaders and/or their staff. We recommend sending your email to a member of your representative's communication's staff and, if applicable, official departments of diversity and inclusion.

1. Search USA.gov's Local Government Database at https://www.usa.gov/local-governments, which you can search by city and find city council members, city managers, policy director, communications leaders, etc. You may then have to Google "Person's name" and the word "email" to find their contact info.

2. Use a Google search:
    a. CITY NAME local government
    b. CITY NAME local representative contact
    c. CITY NAME city manager
    d. CITY NAME government give feedback
    e. CITY NAME government diversity and inclusion office contact

3. Search on your city government's website:
    a. Representative email
    b. Representative contact
    c. feedback
    d. diversity and inclusion office contact

Now use our model email templates to start the conversation!
